

10 & 17 May 2021, Online
Engage, Inform, Inspire

	STRENGTHS OF THE COURSE	WEAKNESSES OF THE COURSE	ADDITIONAL REMARKS AND SUGGESTIONS
1	Charismatic course supervisors that lived what we were supposed to learn. Many interesting concepts about many aspects of how to present. Very enriching course!	Can't think of any.
2	The speakers were motivated and you could see that they enjoy giving this course. They provided constructive comments on how to do a better presentation and how to improve the presentation skills.	The theatricalization of the course didn't help me to engage more, rather the opposite. I felt a bit awkward with the metaphors and the motivational component of it. I also did not enjoy the games / dances / sounds in the course, I would have preferred a more "boring" approach with focus on constructive. The speakers asked stupid questions: "what do you see in this picture?" We all have eyes, we see the same. That discouraged me from participating more actively in the course. The tone from the speaker was overly slow and mild, repeating simple statements several times. That made me feel like a stupid kid and loose interest in the course. We are PhD students, and personally, I would prefer a less childish approach.	I enrolled because I needed the credits in Skills, because its compulsory.
3	general tips were very helpful	could have been condensed into shorter days, seemed to drag on. but I did like the 2 day format of improving a presentation
4	Very engaging, good support by teachers, there was a lot of information provided	Some of the activities used to engage the participants were somewhat of putting, such as dancing.	Great course, I can only recommend it
5	Not only theoretical but also practical. Good to get this course from someone that had a past in science, because even if the bases are the same as in other fields, the execution is not the same.	A shame that it was not at fribourg.	Try to find a better solution if you have to do it again online, with even more interaction to get it close to the live thing.
6	Absolutely everything, this was the best course I've had the chance to take a part in until now!	None	Please keep proposing this course for the next semesters, or else the people I recommended it to will be really disappointed
7	Really engaging teaching. The giving presentations in the beginning and the end was really useful - all participants improved visibly	The engagement was a little over the top sometimes... might scare off some participants	It would have been great if we had also a session about the question session.
8	Good balance between theory and practice. Great exercises on the second day on voice, gesture and so on.
9
10	Nice challenge to prepare a 3 min presentation, and to hear a direct feedback on how much listeners understood.	The course is too long, with repetitive and tiring "exercises". First day of the course was better organized, second day could be summarized in 1h.
11	I like the organization and presentation of the materials. Also the presenters make it fun and engaging.	3 min is really short. But I understand why it is the chosen time frame.	Thanks for your time and advice. I appreciate it very much.
12	Practical exercises	None
13	Interactive and inspiring	None	